Summary

The renter's credit is designed to offset property taxes paid by renters, based on the assumption that a portion of rent represents taxes paid by the owner. Under current law, taxpayers with incomes below $77,570 are eligible to claim the credit. Beginning in 2025, taxpayers will claim the credit on their individual income tax returns. The maximum refund ranges from $270 to $2,720, with greater maximums available to taxpayers with lower incomes, and smaller maximums available to taxpayers with greater incomes.

H.F. 2499 expands the range of the incomes eligible to claim the credit, allowing individuals earning between $77,570 and $143,139 to qualify for the credit. The bill also increases the maximum refund amounts for all taxpayers; under the bill, the maximum is increased to $3,500 at most.

The table below shows the maximum credit amounts under current law, and as proposed in the bill. The maximum refunds and incomes eligible for the bill correspond to the amounts allowed for the homestead credit refund.
